4. Purpose of processing personal data/legal basis/intended purpose of register	Recser's collection point register contains the contact details of battery and accumulator collection points that use Recser's transport service. As an approved producer organisation for batteries and accumulators, Recser fulfils the legal obligations prescribed in Finnish law on behalf of producers with which it has an agreement, in accordance with Directive 2006/66/EC. In order to successfully fulfil the statutory collection obligations, Recser has created a nationwide collection system for portable batteries and accumulators. This system is designed for collecting batteries and accumulators from all retail outlets selling these items and other collection points in Finland, and transporting them to recycling. Recser serves the collection points by arranging pick-ups for appropriately sized batches of batteries and accumulators. The personal data stored in the collection point register will only be used for purposes necessary to fulfil Recser's statutory collection obligation, such as for carrying out pick-ups and providing instructions.

8. Register protection principles	An agreement concerning the customer register's data protection has been signed between the controller and the system suppliers. The system suppliers manage the register and all related data storage, in accordance with good information processing practices, and comply with the secrecy and confidentiality requirements without exception. All employees who process information in the register are bound to confidentiality. Only those employees whose duties require them to have a right to process customer information are authorised to use the system that contains customer information. All users log in to the system by using their personal ID, issued when user rights are granted. The use rights will expire when a person leaves the duties for which the rights were granted. An employee will remain bound to secrecy and confidentiality even after their duties requiring them to process customer information or their employment contract has ended. The information is collected into databases that are both logically and physically protected. The information is protected in accordance with the Act on the Protection of Privacy in Electronic Communications, as well as regulations and guidelines issued by the Finnish Transport and Communications Agency.
9. Right of inspection and the implementation thereof	Once a data subject has provided the necessary details to locate the correct information, they have a right to know which personal information has been stored in the register about them, or that no information has been stored about them in the register. At that time, the controller must also disclose the register's regular information sources to the data subject and inform them of the purpose for which the information is used and to whom information is regularly disclosed. If the data subject wishes to inspect the information concerning themselves as described in the previous paragraph, they must submit a request to the person in charge of Recser Oy's register in the form of a personally signed or similarly authenticated document. The data subject must, without undue delay, be given access to the

10. Amendments to information and the implementation thereof	The controller shall, without undue delay, correct, delete or supplement any personal information in the register that is erroneous, unnecessary, incomplete or outdated for the purpose of its processing, either of its own accord or upon a data subject's request. The controller shall also prevent the distribution of such information. If the controller does not accept the data subject's request to have their information corrected, the controller must provide a written statement regarding the matter and explain the reasons for why the request was rejected. The data subject may submit the case to the Data Protection Ombudsman for processing. The controller must notify of any amendments the party to whom the controller has disclosed or from whom the controller has received the erroneous personal information. However, no reporting obligation exists if it is impossible or requires unreasonable effort. Amendment requests must be addressed to the contact details provided above in Section 2.
